Riedel offers cleaning beads, which can aid in removing tough stains inside the decanter. Simply add them slowly through a funnel with some warm water into the decanter and swirl them around for about two minutes. When you are finished strain the beads into a mesh colander, rinse them, dry them, and store for future use. DO NOT use the beads on our closed end decanters such as Ayam, Eve, Curly, Boa, Mamba, Horse, Twenty Twelve, Swan, Face to Face, Evechen and Horn as well as all Limited Editions.

THE ART OF WINE DECANTING

DO...
- fill with lukewarm water after use and let soak until you are ready to clean
- use dishwashing detergent
- rinse only with lukewarm water
- use a sponge as it could scratch the glass
- mix a bit of white vinegar into the water to help remove tough water or wine stains, for really tough stains try a small amount of ethanol

DON'T...
- use methyl alcohol
- dry upside down and let drain on a linen cloth
- let it sit on a linen cloth longer than time needed to drain
- Steam polish over boiling water for extra shine as recommended by Georg Riedel

- On the bottle, Riedel always uses tight, high-quality metal screwcap, using glass rings and screws that never require the use of corkscrews. After opening, be sure to screw the cap back on and store the bottle upright.
- Riedel offers a variety of crystal decanters, each one crafted by master glassblowers to reflect the character of the wine they contain. Riedel decanters are designed to enhance the aroma, taste, and character of the wine, as well as to provide a beautiful centerpiece for any table setting.
- Riedel decanters are made with the highest quality materials, ensuring that they will last for generations. Every Riedel decanter is crafted by hand, using a combination of traditional and modern techniques to create a piece of art that is both functional and aesthetically pleasing.
- Riedel decanters are designed to be used with any type of wine, from light and crisp whites to rich and hearty reds. They are ideal for any occasion, whether you are hosting a formal dinner party or simply enjoying a glass of wine with friends.
